

Missing Parent Information Form

Per federal regulations, students who do not meet the independent student criteria are considered dependent students. Dependent students are required to report parent information on the FAFSA. Parents who provide their information on the FAFSA are not under any financial obligation for the student's educational expenses. This information is used solely to determine financial aid eligibility.

If parents refuse to give that information, students are automatically ineligible for:

Pell Grants
Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants
Academic Competitiveness Grants
Iowa Vocational Technical Grants
Iowa Grants
Work-study
Subsidized Stafford Loans

The only federal or state financial aid a student can receive are unsubsidized Stafford Loans. These loans accrue interest from the date of disbursement unlike the subsidized version, for which the federal government pays all interest while the student is enrolled at least half time.

The Kirkwood One Stop Financial Aid Office highly recommends parents provide the necessary information so the student can be considered for the best possible financial aid package.

I have read and understand the information provided above. I affirm that I am the parent of
