Job Club
The Kirkwood Community College Job Club is open to anyone needing support during their job search. The group is open to anyone regardless of residence, age, position and educational level. There will be job club activities weekly. The activities will repeat each month. There will be workshops on Career Directions, MBTI, Career Coach, Resume Writing, Job Search, Job Applications and Written Correspondence, Interviewing for a Job and Mock Interviewing. For more information and times please contact our Dean of Students Office at (319) 398-5540 or stop by the office in Iowa Hall 108.

Career Exploration Assessments
Do you need help deciding on a major or career? Taking a career assessment may help.

Myers-Briggs Type Indicator
This tool measures your personality style including what energizes you, your attention to detail, your risk-taking comfort level and how you make decisions. The assessment will help you gain a better understanding of your personality and help you identify career fields that may be a good “fit” for you. The assessment is offered in a workshop format only.

Career Coach
This assessment measures your interests in different career-related subjects. To receive the greatest benefit, attend a workshop where you can take the assessment and learn how to apply the results. (See below for workshop dates).

For Career Exploration Workshop Dates/Times: Stop by 108 Iowa Hall or visit our website at www.kirkwood.edu/careerservices.

  * Evaluate job offers (see page 104)
  * Narrow down the specific things you are looking for in a job
Career Research

Once you’ve started to gain a more thorough understanding of yourself (your strengths, personality, interests, abilities and values) your next step is to find a career that fits you. This will take some time, but there are many resources available to help you.

Ways to research careers

- Online – The internet is a great starting place for researching a wide range of career fields. (See below for recommended web sites)
- Internships – Short term professional work experiences (i.e. internships) are a great way to “try on” a career field. (See page 8)
- Job shadowing – Sometimes professionals will let you follow them around for a day or two. This can give you a taste of what the job environment is like.
- Related experiences – Your part-time job, volunteer work, or involvement in organizations may also help you better understand certain career fields.
- Informational interviewing – One way of researching careers is to interview people who are in the career field you are interested in. (See page 7)

Career Research Websites

- The Occupational Outlook Handbook has an online catalogue of information on hundreds of careers. It includes information on the training and education needed, earnings, expected job prospects, what workers do on the job and working conditions. http://www.stats.bls.gov/oco
- O*NET is an online database of career information. With O*Net, you can select skills you have and search for a career to match your skills. You can also search by keyword. http://online.onetcenter.org
- Salary.com has information about salaries, including low, median and high range salaries. www.salary.com
- Get That Gig provides profiles of people working in a wide range of career fields. www.getthatgig.com
- America's Career InfoNet has information about particular occupations (training, outlook, earnings), particular geographic areas, trends and resources. www.acinet.org
- Bureau of Labor Statistics has projections for future job growth for many occupations www.bls.gov
- Click on My Career is a Cedar Rapids/Iowa City website with information about careers generally available locally. Includes real profiles and job descriptions of professionals in the area. www.clickonmycareer.com
- Career Voyages is a user-friendly website. You can research careers and get helpful tips on where to begin planning your career, including searching for college programs and financing your college expenses. www.careervoyages.org
- What can I do with a major in ________? Find out what you can do with a specific major http://whatcanidowiththismajor.com/major/
Informational Interviewing

Informational Interviewing is a great way to learn about a career field that interests you. You can gain a lot of insight and also develop valuable contacts that may help you in the future. Here’s what you do:

1. Find someone who does something that sounds interesting to you. You can use the yellow pages, internet search engines, company websites, friends and professional organizations to identify possible contacts. Your counselor or career services coordinator can help you brainstorm. TIP: Professionals from smaller, lesser-known organizations generally receive fewer requests for information and may be more willing to help.

2. Contact the person you’d like to interview. Let them know that you are a Kirkwood student researching careers. Ask if they would be willing to help you out by letting you interview them about their career path. Let them know it will take 20-30 minutes. NOTE: Make sure it only takes 20-30 minutes. For an example of a request for an Informational Interview Letter see page 53.

3. Prepare a list of questions, guided by what you would like to learn from the interview (see sample list below).

4. Dress appropriately and arrive 10-15 minutes early. Bring a copy of your resume in case it is requested. Remember that your purpose is gathering information, not searching for a job.

5. Keep a record of the information you gained from the experience. Reflect upon what you learned. Does it still seem like something you’d enjoy? Also, keep a record of the contact information for each person you interview because you may need it in the future.

6. Send a Thank You note! The person you interviewed is probably a very busy person and generously gave you one-half hour of time, free of charge. Show your appreciation with a short thank you note.

Sample Questions for an Informational Interview

1. Could you describe the career path you took to arrive in your current position?
2. What is a typical day like for you? A typical week?
3. What are your main responsibilities? How much time do you devote to each activity?
4. What are some typical high pressure situations you deal with?
5. What are the most rewarding aspects of your job?
6. What are the most challenging aspects of your job?
7. What would you most like to change about your position?
8. How has this career field changed in the last several years?
9. What changes do you foresee in the next few years?
10. What character qualities/skills are important to have to be successful in this field?
11. How can I obtain these skills/qualities?
12. What educational experiences would be helpful to one hoping to enter this field?
13. What educational experiences did you find helpful in preparing for this job?
14. What are some common entry-level positions in this field?
15. How much travel or relocation is required?
16. Are you happy with your salary?
17. How difficult would it be for you to change to a similar job in another industry or setting?
18. What are your future career goals? Are these common goals for your field?
19. What are the actual hours you put in during a given week?
20. Would you be willing to look at my resume/portfolio and give me some tips or advice on how to improve it?
21. Would you recommend anyone else in this field for me to talk to?
Internships

Why Do Them and How to Look for a Good One

An internship is a temporary job doing professional work in a field that interests you.

Internships are required for some Kirkwood programs. Check with your academic department for more information.

An internship can help you:
• Apply what you are learning in class to real-world situations
• “Try on” a career to see if it’s a good fit
• Work alongside professionals in a career that interests you
• Develop valuable career contacts
• Build your resume
• Learn useful skills
• Gain confidence in your abilities
• Obtain a full-time position
• Gain the experience you need to obtain a full-time job

How to find an Internship
• The Career Center (108 Iowa Hall) does not set up internships; however, we can assist you in the Job Seeking Skills process in locating internships.
• Attend a career fair at Kirkwood. Call 398-5689 or stop by 108 Iowa Hall for dates.
• Check Kirkwood’s online job board (www.kirkwood.edu/jobs). Many “part-time” or “summer” jobs could actually be considered internships. (See page 68)
• Research organizations you’d like to intern with and send each of them a specific letter of inquiry (see page 69). Follow up a week later with a phone call, to see if they are open to the idea of having you as an intern.
• Ask your professors, friends, family and advisor for internship ideas and/or leads.

Internship Tips
• Make sure you will be doing a significant amount of professional work and not just fetching coffee.
• Some internships are paid, some are unpaid. When selecting an internship, consider not only the amount you’ll be paid, but more importantly the quality of experience you will gain.

Other ways to gain experience
• Part-Time Jobs – Some part-time jobs involve duties related to your professional field. Even if your part-time job does not qualify as an internship, you may still be able to learn new skills and meet professionals in your field.
• Volunteer - Are there any organizations that could use your skills? Many organizations need people to plan events, organize activities, raise funds, create marketing campaigns, analyze budgets, etc. If you volunteer your services you will be able to gain practical experience and add to your skill set. Of course, you’ll also be contributing to the well-being of your community!
• Get involved with a campus organization - Develop your leadership, communication and organizational skills by getting involved in one of Kirkwood’s student organizations. Manage a budget, make posters, lead meetings, plan events, sell things, recruit new members, organize fund-raisers, or be an activist. You will gain valuable skills through any of these activities. Check with the Student Life Office on second floor of Iowa Hall Room 230 for more information.

• Make up your own projects - If you can’t find anyone that needs what you have to offer, make something up! Write reports, create artwork, make up a business plan and marketing strategy, or build / fix something. You can talk about these projects during an interview, or you can compile your projects into a portfolio displaying your work and proving your skill level. (Some majors lend themselves to this more easily than others.)
Parts of a Resume

Header: The first line of information in your header should include your name, address, e-mail and phone numbers in 14-16 pt. font. If your contact information changes during semester breaks, include both a “permanent” and “current” address, so employers can contact you during semester breaks.

Education: If you are a recent graduate, you’ll probably list your education near the top of your resume. Include the name of your institution, the degree(s) earned, minors or areas of concentration and anticipated or actual graduation date. If your GPA is over 3.0, include your GPA. You don’t need to list the years of attendance, you only need the date you completed your degree. You do not need to include high school information, unless you are a recent high school graduate. Generally, recent graduates will put the education section near the top of the resume. As you gain more significant work experiences, consider moving the education section below your experience section.

Experience: Include information about your experiences – both volunteer and paid. List your experiences in reverse chronological order (beginning with your current job and ending with your least recent job.) Use 3-5 bullet points for each job to clearly describe what you did; focusing on the duties/skills that may transfer to the job you are seeking.

-OR-

“Related Experience” and “Work Experience”: Usually you can put all your experiences under one category titled “EXPERIENCE”. If you have several work experiences not related to your field, you may want to separate your experience category into “RELATED EXPERIENCE” and “WORK EXPERIENCE”. “RELATED EXPERIENCE” would go near the top of the resume and include all your past experiences closely related to the type of work you are seeking. “WORK EXPERIENCE” would go below related experience and would include jobs that are not related to your field.

Computer Skills: If you have knowledge of certain computer systems or software that will help you better perform the job you’re applying for, list them here. List the latest additions you know. (Example: Experience in Adobe Photoshop 9.0, Microsoft Word 2013, Windows 2008. Knowledgeable in 2013 PowerPoint and Excel.) Make sure you identify your level of ability in using computers. Either you are Experienced or Knowledgeable in using computers and programs. Experienced means you know the programs VERY well. It means the same as proficient. Knowledgeable means you know enough to be dangerous.

Optional Sections:

- Objective: If you are applying for a specific job within a company, mention that job title in your objective, at the top of your resume. If you are applying for an internship, make a note of when you’d like to do the internship (summer, spring semester, etc.). General objectives are okay, but not necessary. If you do include a general objective, make sure you emphasize what you can offer the employer rather than what you hope to gain. An objective would go directly below your contact info at the top of the page. (Example: To obtain a Marketing Internship during the summer of 2016.)

- Course Highlights: If you are looking for an internship, you may want to include a section for course highlights, so you can let the employer know you’ve taken specific classes and have knowledge that would make you a useful intern. List the classes most directly related to the type of work you will be doing at the internship. If you are looking for a full-time job in a field that is not directly related to your major, include courses you have taken related to the type of job you seek.

- Certifications or Technical Skills: If you have certifications or technical skills you can use on the job you’re applying for, list them here.
• International Experience: Use this heading if you have studied abroad or spent significant amount of time overseas.

• Languages: If you are fluent in more than one language, you may want to list your proficiencies in this section.

• Organizations/Clubs: If you have been involved in organizations/clubs related to your field or demonstrate your skills, you can include them on your resume.

• Leadership/Volunteering: If you have been in charge of any volunteer projects, or attended leadership conferences, you can include them in this section.

Resume Format

• Make sure all information is clearly organized, so the employer can understand everything very quickly. The average resume is glanced at for only 20 seconds!

• Arrange your sections in order of importance (i.e. if computer skills are very important in your field, list those near the top of your resume)

• Put whatever you want to draw attention to in bold print. Most people bold their college major and job titles.

• Keep your format consistent. (For example, when listing all of your dates of employment in numerical format make sure to list all dates the same.)

• Margins can be ½ - 1¼ inches wide

• Use Times New Roman font.

• Try to limit your resume to one page if possible; two pages are okay if you have several years of related experience. Exceptions to the rule of one page are IT and Federal positions which may require up to 3 to 4 pages.

• Use bullets instead of paragraph form.

Other Resume Tips

• You don’t need your whole life story, if you’ve had several unrelated jobs, only list your most relevant work experiences.

• Give your resume to a few other people to proofread for errors.

• Print your resume on a high quality laser printer if you can. If you use an inkjet printer, make sure your ink dries completely, without smearing.

• Print your resume on high-quality 100% cotton linen 24 lb. resume paper. The only two acceptable colors to use is white or off-white (ivory) paper.

• You don’t need to include your personal interests unless they relate to the job.

• Don’t use a template. If you do, it’s likely your resume will look exactly like several other resumes in the pile. If the employer does not have the same template as you do, then they will not be able to view your resume. Also, templates make it difficult to edit and rearrange your resume, which you will need to do often.

• Look at sample resumes in your specific career field. Do an online search or ask your teachers for places to find resume samples within your career field.

• If position held was part-time, then add (PT) in parenthesis behind the job title.
• Do not add to the bottom of your resume “references available upon request”. The employer will know that you can provide references if needed.

Transferable Skills

When writing your resume, think in terms of transferable skills. A transferable skill is any skill you learned through past experience and you could use in a future job. Communication, customer service, managerial and organizational skills are all transferable skills employers want.

Even if your past jobs included waiting tables, mowing lawns and working as a clerk, you probably developed some transferable skills. Communication, organization and leadership skills can be learned in a variety of jobs. Use the list of verbs on pages 15 - 17 to brainstorm skills you may have learned at your past jobs.

Tailor your resume to the job you are applying for and focus on the skills that seem most relevant to the position you want. Try to pull out the job duties and skills you learned that are similar to the type of work you want to do. By doing this, you will be able to make connections between your experience and the job you want (even though they may seem unrelated). Look for clues about what the employer is looking for in the job description.

• For example, let’s say your last work experience was a part-time job at the Dairy Barn. Unless you are applying for a job flipping burgers at the Whippy Dip, you’ll need to write about something other than how well you can flip burgers and make a soft serve cone. If you are applying for a position in sales, focus your bullet points on the duties relating to customers, selling and persuading. If you are applying for an accounting position, talk about how you counted the cash register, how much money you handled and how you helped take inventory. If applying for a position in management, talk about how you trained new employees and came up with ideas to help the Dairy Barn run more efficiently.

Tips for Writing Bullet Points

• Start with an action verb (See pages 15 - 17)
• Make sure to be detailed with your bullet points. For example: Hired and trained over 100 employees in the past four years.
• Identify who you were helping (clients, customers, coworkers, management)
• Describe your job duties, focusing on the duties that display your transferable skills (see above).
• Talk about how your efforts helped your organization
• Add numbers to show how productive you were (i.e. number of times you did something, number of customers you helped, amount of cash you handled, how much of something you accomplished, etc.)

Resume Styles

There are 5 Resume Format Styles

1. Chronological
   The Chronological Resume Style is the most common type used today. This type presents your information in a timeline approach. You list the most recent work or education experience first, followed by the next most recent. (See pages 18 – 39)
The main reasons for using the Chronological Style:
  o It is the style best suited for entry-level job-seekers or those who have stayed in the same field.
  o Many employers and recruiters expect and prefer this style.
  o This style provides a straightforward history of your work experiences and education.
  o Employers can more easily scan Chronological resumes than any other style.

Cautions:
  o This style will show any gaps in employment history.
  o Can demonstrate a lack of work experience.
  o Employers and recruiters can guess your age if you include older work experiences.

2. Functional/Skill
   Functional resumes highlight your related skills rather than your chronological work history. You still need to summarize your work history near the bottom of the resume. (See pages 40 - 43)

   You may want to consider using a Functional Resume if:
  o You have a gap(s) in your work history. (Example: you took a few years off to raise children or pursue other interests)
  o You have changed jobs frequently
  o You are looking to transition into a new career (i.e. your past job title and experiences are not similar to the job for which you are applying).
  o Functional Resumes may be effective in these situations, because they draw attention to the transferable skills you have, rather than your exact job titles and experiences.
  o If you are an older worker seeking to de-emphasize a lengthy job history.

3. Computer Scanned
   A Computer Scanned Resume is basically a print resume the employer turns into an electronic resume by using Optical Character Recognition (OCR) software and then placing it into a keyword-searchable database. (See page 44)

   Preparing an internet-ready resume:
  o Often large companies will require you to apply online and paste your resume into an online form.

   If you do this, follow these guidelines:
  o Keep it as simple as possible, remove lines and complicated formatting.
  o Use one universal font for the whole document (Times New Roman) o The most common font size recommended is 12 pt.
  o Avoid any kinds of graphics or shading.
  o Do not use Italics o Do not use Bold (unless you know for sure that the scanning system accepts bold type).
  o Do not use Bullet points.

4. Federal
   A “federal” resume is written to apply for a job with the federal government. The federal resume is usually three to five pages in length, which is longer than a typical business resume. The reason for the additional length is that federal human resources specialists require that you prove in writing the skills that you have. Each generalized and specialized skill that you have developed in your career has to be written into the documentation.
Military

Military members need to prepare federal resumes to look and speak the same language as those of their civilian counterparts. However, after being in the military for many years, they often speak “military,” using plenty of military acronyms and jargon that needs to be translated to meet corporate or civil-sector requirements.

Service members have the added challenge of looking for civilian keywords that help their resumes qualify in the federal system, but they also need to spend extra time learning what their military terms, acronyms and jargon translates to in the corporate world. Service members should translate military rank, career history, job titles, military occupational specialties and career fields and training courses; and use their award, training and performance rating justifications to glean accomplishments.

The following are a few sample translations for rank, responsibilities and acronyms. Federal resumes need to have all acronyms spelled out at least once in the first reference. Each branch of service has its own set of acronyms for individual systems. Some acronyms might be the same, but the meaning is very different.

Action Verbs for a Resume

It’s best to start most of your bullet points with a powerful action verb. Here is a list of powerful verbs describing skills employers seek. You can also use this list to help you come up with ideas for skills you may want to include on your resume. Which of these verbs describe what you did at your previous jobs? Most of these skills can transfer to the job you want. NOTE: if there are verbs included in the job description for a specific job you are applying for, be sure to use those in your resume as well.

Professional Experience

9/12 – Present  Independent Consultant, Cedar Rapids, IA

- An outstanding example of my broad scope expertise is shown with one client I have been servicing since 2010. I initially took an undocumented install of NT server, Exchange and SQL server and made it a fully functional network. This included reverse engineering the install of 3 NT servers, SQL and Exchange. I then documented and recreated the entire network on 3 separate NT servers. Also, I built an internal webpage for the company using FrontPage. Additionally, in one weekend, migrated these 3 NT servers, SQL Server and Exchange to a new Windows 2003 Small Business Server. This required the migration of over 15 GB of data, spanning multiple SQL server databases.

- Reviewed an entire network, encompassing 3 locations in Iowa, for a Civil Engineering firm. After Board of Director approval, built a new 2010 Enterprise server network in one office, upgrading all workstations in office as necessary. Standardized two additional offices, including servers, and updated hardware and software in the remaining two offices to meet approved specifications.

1/00 - 9/12  Aegon USA, Cedar Rapids, IA
Enterprise Systems Engineer

- Negotiated over $20,000 in replacement equipment and on-site support for a non-functioning Enterprise KVM Solution encompassing over 1,000 servers. Updated and brought the system fully functional. Developed processes for asset control, power control and day-to-day maintenance of this system.

- As a VMWare Administrator, reclaimed over $15,000 in server hardware running and implementing the project to reclaim processor and memory within VMWare farms.

- Traveled to Boston, New York, New Jersey, Charlotte and Denver to meet with key Divisions to negotiate technical needs in my role as Enterprise Asset Manager. Resolved key revenue impacting issues between the server teams and the divisions.

- Succeeded in roles as server build and decommission coordinator. Worked with other team members to document and create the server build and decommission processes. At times this meant coordinating the status of over 50 servers at a time.

2/99 – 1/00  McLeod USA, Cedar Rapids, IA
Enterprise System Administrator

- Sole Administrator for Enterprise web-based training solution, Ingenium. Took over project implementation, worked with internal Database, Internet and Server teams to seamlessly roll-out the product. Took the time and effort required to learn the process scripting data in and out of Oracle databases using Crystal Reports and Access.

Cover Letters

The purpose of a cover letter is to build a bridge between your resume and the job description of the open position. You must help the employer see how your experiences, which are listed on your resume, could help you be successful at this job, which is described in the job description. A cover letter should always accompany your resume when you are applying for a specific job even if not requested by the employer.

Parts of a Cover Letter

Header:
Include your contact information (address, city, state and zip code) at the top left side of your cover letter. You may use a standard letter format or you may use the same header as you do for your resume.

Date:
Make sure to place the date that you sent out the cover letter below the header information. There should be one space in between the header and the date.

Employer Contact Information:
This information will come one space below the date. This section should include the name of the contact person, their job title, name of employer and complete address including city, state and zip code. If this information is not available call the employer directly for that information. Having someone to send your cover letter to directly will help increase your chances for an interview. You will then have someone to contact when you want to follow-up.

Salutation:
This should start with Dear Mr. or Ms. Whether the female is married or not, addressing it Ms. is the proper way to address a female in a business/professional environment. The salutation should always be followed by a colon. For example: Dear Mr. Pounds: or Dear Ms. Ebaugh:

Opening Paragraph:
Grab the employer’s attention. What do you know about the company that makes you want to work there? Identify the position you’d like to apply for and demonstrate your knowledge about the position. You should also identify how you learned about the position opening. You could do this by mentioning the name of a person who works at the organization or by referencing a job posting from a website or newspaper. When referencing a listing from a form of media such as a newspaper or website that reference should then be italicized.

Body:
This section will contain one or two paragraphs, in which you describe why you are qualified for the position. Don’t repeat the same information from your resume. Instead, use the body of your letter to expand on some of the information from your resume. Include relevant details about specific projects or experiences. You may use paragraph form, bullets, or a combination of the two.

Repeat phrases from the job description in the body of your cover letter. This is a great strategy for helping employers see that you have what they want. Does the job description mention that the ideal candidate should have “excellent interpersonal communication skills?” Then your letter should read something like “Among the skills I have to offer are my excellent communication skills. For example…” immediately back up every statement like this with some solid facts. Talk about something you’ve done that demonstrates your skills. (See pages 47-50)
Closing:
This is where you ask for an interview. Describe whatever step you will take next and be sure to follow through with what you say you’ll do. It’s appropriate to say you’ll call them on a certain day to follow up. You will want to include your contact information here which includes your phone number and e-mail address and invite them to contact you with any questions. Close with “sincerely”, then type and sign your name. Below your printed name make sure to include the words “Enclosure: Resume” letting the employer know that your resume has been sent with your cover letter.

Salary History:
Sometimes an employer will ask for your salary history. They want to get an idea of how much money you expect to earn. IF the employer asks you to include “salary history” or “salary information” with your application packet, address this issue between the body and closing of your cover letter. Always give a salary range and let them know if you’re willing to negotiate. Visit www.salary.com to get an idea of a typical salary range for the position.

Example 1: My salary history from 1998 to present ranges from $25,000 - $50,000 annually.
Example 2: I would expect to earn $35,000 - $40,000 plus benefits, but I am willing to negotiate.

Pat Cummings, Editor
ABE Corporation
4410 S. Main St.
Des Moines, IA 50319

Dear Mr. Cummings:

I recently read your advertisement in the Des Moines Register for the position of Assistant Editor and I am highly interested in learning more about the job's specific requirements.

I possess strong written and verbal communication skills, as well as computer and desktop publishing experience. My accomplishments include:

- Winning the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's First Place Gold Circle Award for graphic art.
- Serving as feature editor, art editor, graphic artist and reporter for various college publications.
- Completing a course in advertising art/desktop publishing, this focused on the use of PageMaker 7.0 software.
- Proficiency in PC’s and Microsoft 10/13 Word and Excel software.

Please find my resume attached for your review. I would appreciate the opportunity to discuss my specific abilities in relation to your needs. I will call you next week to schedule a mutually convenient time to meet or you may contact me at (302) 555-5555 or by email at csmith@yahoo.com.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Ms. Joan Doe, Manager
BCD Company
10 South Main Ave.
Frytown, IA 55551

Dear Ms. Doe:

In response to your ad in The Gazette on October 10 for the Management Assistant position, I am enclosing my resume for your consideration.

I think you may be interested in some of my accomplishments:

• Hired, supervised and trained 6 full-time staff and 12 seasonal assistants.
• Assisted in the development of our management training program; oversaw the program's $350,000 budget.
• Designed office procedures; developed company policy on handling customers.
• Familiar with the use of PC's and Microsoft Office 2013 programs, Excel and Word.

In accomplishing these tasks, I drew heavily on my educational training and my diversified work experience. Presently I am seeking a new opportunity where I can continue to utilize my abilities and skills.

My salary requirement would be $44,750 to $54,750 plus benefits. I am willing to negotiate. (Only give salary requirements/salary history when requested by the employer)

I would like to meet with you and explore my qualifications and interest in the BCD Company. I will call your office in a few days to see when we can arrange time to meet, or you may contact me at (319) 555-1212 or by email at jsmith@hotmail.com. I would appreciate that you would not contact my present employer.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Brooks:

I’m a recent graduate from Kirkwood’s Accounting program. I’m researching the field of accounting and learning about what’s going on in the field by talking to people who are currently working in the industry. I’ve researched your company and I’m very interested in meeting with you to learn more about the field of accounting.

It would be great to meet with you and see what you do. You might be able to offer some professional advice for someone who is just starting out in this field. I promise to only take 15-20 minutes of your valuable time. Would you be willing to help me out?

I would greatly appreciate any advice you might be able to give me. I will call you next week to follow up or you may contact me at (319) 378-5454 or by email at lwilson25@yahoo.com.

Thank You Letters

- Send a thank you after any kind of meeting (networking, informational interviewing or job interview).
- Send one to each person who spent a significant amount of time with you.
- Send it as a typed letter on resume paper or a neatly hand-written thank you card.
- Be prompt. Mail your letters within 24 to 48 hours of your interview/meeting.
- Proofread.

Thank You Letter:

Header:
Include your contact information (address, city, state and zip code) at the top left side of your thank you letter. You may use a standard letter format or you may use the same header as you do for your resume.

Date:
Make sure to place the date that you sent out the thank you letter below the header information. There should be at least one space between the header and the date.

Employer Contact Information:
This information will come at least one space below the date. This section should include the name of the contact person who interviewed you, their job title, company name and complete address including city, state and zip code.

Salutation:
This should start with Dear Mr. or Ms. whether the female is married or not, addressing it Ms. is the proper way to address a female in a business/professional environment. The salutation should always be followed by a colon. For example: Dear Mr. Pounds:

Opening Paragraph:
Thank the employer for taking the time to meet with you. Remind them of the position that you interviewed for and the date that you interviewed.

Body:
This is another opportunity for you to reiterate why you would be the best candidate. Remind them of what your experience has been and what you would bring to the position.

Closing:
Thank them again for their time. Let them know when you are looking forward to hearing back from them (based on asking them at the interview “when do you hope to have a decision made?”).

Sincerely:
Make sure to end with sincerely and then 3 to 4 spaces and then type your name. Make sure to always sign your thank you letter above your printed name.

Jerry Smart
Dear Mr. Jones:

Thank you for taking the time to interview me on September 18, 20XX. Engineer Inc. is an impressive, modern manufacturing plant, which I would be interested in joining as a Mechanical Product Design Engineer.

Let me reiterate my accomplishments for this position.

My accomplishments:
- Managed mechanical design systems for over 250 consumer and PC products, both in assembled and kit form.
- Administered $780,000 in expense budget, plus $4 to $10 million in research engineering department.
- Monitored production safety records and compliances.
- Added $15 million of new revenue out of $85 million total business revenue for 2010.

Your requirements:
- Administer mechanical product design and production.
- Prepare and regulate expense and capital budgets.
- Oversee product safety.
- Increase and maintain product revenue.

I look forward to your decision by next Wednesday. Thank you again for considering my qualifications.

Sincerely,

Jerry Smart

Thank You Card Sample

- Your thank you card should say "Thank You" on the front and be blank on the inside.
- Write your message only on the bottom inside flap of your card.
- Make sure to use store bought/professional cards.
- Handwritten cards should only be sent if your handwriting is nice enough for the employer to read. Otherwise send a typed thank you letter (See pg. 57).
- Use a black inked pen.
- Make sure that the envelope is addressed properly which would include the employers name, address as well as your return address.
- Make sure to proofread your card before sending.

Dear Mr. Smith,

Thank you for taking the time to meet with me on Monday. I enjoyed speaking with you regarding opportunities with XYZ Company. I am very excited about the possibility of interning with you this summer. I look forward to hearing from you next Tuesday.

Sincerely,

Jane Taylor

DO NOT:
- Send cards with butterflies, bugs, flowers or any funny characters on your card
- Send cards with a written statement/message already in the card
- Make a computer generated Thank you card

E-mail Correspondence

- When you email your resume, use your email message as your cover letter. You can just paste your cover letter into the message of the email, unless a separate cover letter is requested. Format your email cover letter as you would any email message. (Your contact info can go at the bottom; don’t leave space for a signature—you won’t be signing it!)
- If a separate cover letter is requested, your email should be brief. State the position you are applying for and mention that you’ve attached your cover letter and resume.
- Use the job title or job code as the subject line for your email. You may also want to include your name in the subject line, especially if your email address is not your name.
- All attachments should be in Microsoft Word or PDF documents unless requested otherwise. Test your resume by emailing it to your friends to make sure it opens easily on different computers.
- Name each file with your name and document description. (Example: jane-smith-resume.doc, jane-smith-coverletter.doc, jane-smith-references.doc)
- Be brief, polite and professional whenever you correspond with an employer.
- Make sure your email address, greeting and signature line are professional.

Sample E-mail message

Dear Mr. Prior:

I would like to apply for the Accountant position advertised in the Cedar Rapids Gazette. Please review the attached Cover letter and Resume in consideration for position #2445. Thank you for your time.

Netiquette Policy for Job Hunters

Netiquette (short for network etiquette) refers to rules of etiquette when communicating online via e-mails, discussion boards and chat rooms.

Use formatting wisely.
- TYPING IN ALL CAPITAL LETTERS IS EQUIVALENT TO SHOUTING! Shouting at your readers will have the opposite effect you intend; your readers are more likely to skim over what you have to say, or ignore you altogether.

Be professional, respectful and thoughtful in all communications.
- Please practice professional standards in all your online communications. Students, Alumni and Community people should treat all employers with respect when communicating online.

Pay attention to spelling and grammar.
- You will be judged by the quality of your writing. Therefore, whenever possible, lend e-mails and discussion posts the same attention to detail you would devote to any published work like your Resumes, Cover Letters and Thank you letters.

Read your messages carefully before sending it.
- Your communications online via e-mail or in discussion groups like LinkedIn are recorded and archived. Since anything you say online can easily be forwarded, avoid making statements you would not want to become public knowledge.

Keep your responses concise.
- Edit out anything that is not directly applicable to your response. While it is helpful to provide context for your reader by including the original e-mail in your reply, you should avoid burying your response in the layer-upon-layer of previous correspondence.
Job Search Tips

Some of the best jobs are snagged before they are even advertised! Here are some tips on how to be proactive and snag one for you:

1. Target a specific geographic area and research places where you’d like to work.
2. Ask everyone you know to keep their eyes open for potential job openings in your field. Even if they are not working in your field, they may know someone who is! (See pages 71 - 74 for more tips on networking)
3. Set up informational interviews with people in the organization you’d like to work (see page 7). Don’t ask for a job, but do ask for advice on your resume (and if they like it, they may offer some job leads!).
4. Send letters of inquiry to places you’d like to work, via postal or email (see page 51). Follow-up your letters a few days later with a phone call.
5. Ask if you can call back in a month to see if there are any new job vacancies.
6. Check company websites and online job boards regularly for job vacancy announcements.

KCC Job Website Registration Instructions

www.kirkwood.edu/jobs

STUDENT & ALUMNI REGISTRATION INSTRUCTIONS

All Students and Alumni are eligible to use the Kirkwood Community College online job board after completing the following registration process through a site that has been specially designed for the Kirkwood Community College Career Services Center. Follow these simple steps:

- Go to your school’s Career Center URL:  www.kirkwood.edu/jobs
- Click the Student or Alumni icon; then Register Now.
- Enter a unique ID and Password that you will remember. Confirm your password.
- Click “Continue Registration”

Now you will be asked to complete the REGISTRATION form to search for jobs. You may upload a RESUME at a later date.

REGISTRATION ENTRY

- Enter all demographic information. Fields with an (*) asterisk are required (Name, Current Address, Phone). Answer questions about where you want to work and the kinds of jobs that interest you. Employers will search this information, as well as the degrees you are obtaining. Be as thorough and complete as possible.

RESUME ENTRY

- From your homepage, click Upload a Resume. You should have a resume completed on disk at this time to upload. Browse the file, select it, then click Upload your resume.

- From your homepage, click Search for Jobs Posted to My School, enter criteria specific to the type of job you are looking for on the search form, click Begin Search… You may also Search for Jobs in CCN’s Jobs Central, our national job database.

When conducting a job search using CCN, be aware that by selecting several search criteria, such as Degree, Area of Interest, FT/PT jobs, etc., you are narrowing your search. It is a good idea to conduct a focused search, but you may also want to try searching different criteria. To view all jobs posted, leave all the search fields blank.

REPORT OFFERS/HIRES

- An IMPORTANT step in this process is reporting any hiring or job offers to our database. Use the Report Offers/Hires link on your Personal Account home page to record this information.

Congratulations! You now know how to navigate through College Central Network’s Job Site here at Kirkwood.

From now on you can visit your school’s page:  www.kirkwood.edu/jobs  at any time, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, three hundred and sixty-five days a year.

Just click through to Student or Alumni or Community Member Central and enter your unique ID and Password and you’re there!
Researching Companies / Organizations

Once you have targeted the geographic location you’d like to work, your next step is to target specific companies or organizations.

Researching companies will help you:

- Evaluate whether or not a company seems like a good fit for you. (Do you really want to work there?)
- Figure out how you could benefit the company, so that you can communicate specific ways you could contribute to/improve the company. (What are their needs?)
- Prepare for an interview. Researching the company beforehand conveys your interest in the company. It will also enable you to ask intelligent questions during the interview.

Tips on researching companies:

- Save time by using a resource book that compiles information on several companies in one place. The books may focus on a specific industry. You may be able to find these books in Kirkwood’s library, the public library, or bookstores. (Examples: Dun & Bradstreet, Standard & Poor’s Register, Moody’s Manuals.)
- Review the company’s website. Use a search engine to locate the website and then skim the site and gain as much information as you can.
- People who already work for the organization can be a great resource. If you know someone who works there, (or if you know someone who knows someone who works there) be sure to get in contact with that person. LinkedIn could be a good resource to find that connection!
- Join related trade or professional organizations to get an inside look at the industry.
- Read professional journals and magazines to learn about companies and trends in your field.
- Stay organized. Keep your information organized by using a spreadsheet or other methods. You don’t want to confuse one company with another.

Things to investigate:

- Product/s made and services offered by the company
- The working environment
- Potential for growth
- Plans for the future
- Methods of decision-making
- Degree to which employees are involved in decision-making
- Frequency of turnover
- Management style
- Competitors
- History – including past accomplishments
- Major customers/clients
- Things that need improvement
- If you are researching in preparation for an interview, find out as much as you can about the specific position.
Websites for Researching Companies

- Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance: www.cedarrapids.org. The membership directory has contact information and/or links to many local companies.
- At WetFeet.com, you can enter a major city and get lists of information about the major industries and companies in that city, along with links to help you find lesser known job opportunities within the area. www.wetfeet.com
- Vault.com has detailed information about major companies worldwide. www.vault.com
- Symplicity.com provides detailed info on hundreds of companies. Registration is required, but it’s fast and free. www.symplicity.com
Networking

80% of people today find jobs through networking. When used in conjunction with your excellent resume, cover letter and interviewing skills, networking can help you get your first big break!

Networking is the process of making connections with people who may be able to help you in your job search.

Networking can help you find out about job openings before they are even advertised. People inside a company often know when there is a need for a new employee, long before people outside the company find out.

Networking can help get you hired. Most employers would prefer to hire someone they know, or an acquaintance of someone they know. The more people you know within your field, the better your chances for obtaining a job become.

But I don’t know anyone in this field. How can I network?

Meet your friend’s dad’s neighbor’s uncle’s brother!

- Let’s say you only know 10 people with real jobs and they are in career fields you are not interested in.
- Each of those people probably knows 15 people in other fields. (10 X 15 = 150)
- Now you have 150 contacts and one of them is likely to know someone that can help you with your job search.
- LinkedIn could be a good resource to find that connection!
- Whenever you meet someone, ask them if they can recommend anyone else who may be able to help you with your job search. This will expand your contact base even more.

Use informational interviewing as a way of initiating relationships (See page 7)

- Contact people within your field directly. Use a directory to find their contact info.
- If you call and have trouble getting a hold of the person, email may be the best way to initiate contact. You can send a letter asking to meet for 15 to 20 minutes. (See page 53)
- When asking for 15 to 20 minutes of their time, make sure to stick to the 15 to 20 minutes that you’ve asked for.
- Identify yourself as a student who is preparing to enter the work-world. Tell them you are learning more about the field and looking for some advice on entering the field. Make sure it’s clear that you are not asking them for a job.
- Set up an appointment to come in and chat with the person.
- During the interview, ask questions about the industry and ask for advice on getting into the field. Show them your resume and ask for suggestions on how to improve it. Ask if they know anyone else who would be willing to speak with you.

Online networking: Join a chat room related to the specific industry you want to enter.
For Example: www.linkedin.com

Attend professional conferences and/or join a professional organization: Many professionals belong to professional organizations specific to their career field. Many times these organizations will hold conferences where area professionals gather to learn, socialize and network. Most organizations and conferences will give a discounted registration/membership rate to students. Ask your teachers or advisor for recommended professional organizations.
Join a career-related student organization: Involvement with a student organization related to your major can give you opportunities to meet and work with people in your field. Check with Student Life on the second floor of Iowa Hall room 230, or call (319) 398-5578.

Cold calls or Networking letters (see example of networking letter on page 74)
If you don’t know anyone in your field and don’t know anyone who knows anyone in your field, you may need to do some “cold” calling. You can call, email, or mail a letter to initiate contact with someone you’ve had no previous connection. You may obtain names and contact info from phone directories or company websites.

A networking “cold call” might go something like this:

You: Hello. Could I speak with Ms. Frank please?

Employer: This is Ms. Frank speaking. What can I help you with?

You: I’m a recent graduate from Kirkwood’s Accounting program. I’m researching the field of accounting and learning about what’s going on in the field by talking to people who are currently working in the industry. I’ve researched your company and I’m very interested in possibly meeting with you to learn more about the field of accounting. Would you be willing to help me out with this?

Employer: Well…ok…but we’re not really hiring now.

You: Oh, that’s fine. It would be great just to be able to meet with you and see what you do. You might be able to offer some helpful professional advice for someone just starting out in this field. Would you be available to meet with me next week sometime?

Employer: Well…I’ve got an open slot on Wednesday, at 11:00am.

You: Wednesday at 11:00am sounds great. I’ll see you then. Thank you so much for your willingness to help!

Some things to remember as you meet people:

- Prepare beforehand. Know what you want. Have a list of questions. Be ready to ask them during an informational interview, at the grocery store, or at a conference. Networking can happen anywhere. Be ready.

- Stay organized. Keep a record of your contacts. Write down contact info and anything else you learn about the person or organization. You may need to contact them in the future and you’ll want to remember all you can about them.

- Ask for advice on your resume. Make sure that they understand you are asking for advice and not begging for a job. Remember, you promised them on the phone that you wouldn’t ask them for a job. However, getting tips on your resume and getting your resume before potential future employers can help you.
• Respect their time. If you ask for a 20 minute meeting, keep it to 20 minutes. Always try to make things as convenient as possible for them.

• Do what you said you’d do, when you said you’d do it. Call when you said you’d call, etc.

• Introduce yourself each time you meet someone, even if you’ve met them before. They may not remember you and introducing yourself will save them from the embarrassment of having forgotten your name.

• Thank them! Express your gratitude by saying thank you and sending people who help you thank you notes.

• Keep in touch, but don’t stalk them. Ask if you can check back in with them in a month or two. (That way you can see if they’ve heard of any new job openings and ask them other questions about your job search) If they give you permission, contact them in a month or two if you’re still looking for a job. Don’t call more than once every few months, or you may start to annoy your contact.

Just Do It. Networking can be scary at first, but as you gain confidence, it will become easier and more pleasant. The worst that can happen is you’ll meet someone that doesn’t want to help you; so you have little to lose and much to gain. If you are polite yet persistent you’ll find that most people are happy to help.
NETWORKING LETTER

Henry Johnson
Telecommunications Consultant
ZIP Corporation
88 Old Mill Rd
Chicago, IL  60605

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Several years ago I was a classmate of your son Dustin at the University of Iowa. I bumped into him last week in Billings, Montana, of all places. He informed me that you deal closely with several leading specialists in the telecommunications field and suggested I contact you immediately.

I am interested in joining a company where I can contribute by utilizing my strong skills and communications education.

I offer:

- Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication Science
- Familiarity with all areas of marketing, public relations and advertising
- Two year experience as a Promotions Intern at KNRA radio station.
- Fluent in speaking and writing Spanish
- Excellent skills in operating Microsoft Office 10/13 programs – Word, Excel and PowerPoint.

I would greatly appreciate any advice and/or referrals you might be able to give me. I will call you in a few days to follow up or you may contact me at (319) 378-5454 or by email at mjohnson25@yahoo.com.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Johnson

Social Networking

How to Get Started With Social Networking
Increasingly, social media provides a platform for recruiting employees, serving customers, professional networking, personal and professional branding and marketing products and services.

Popular Social Media Sites
LinkedIn is the premier site for professional networking, group discussions, publishing content and advertising jobs. LinkedIn web address: www.linkedin.com

Facebook provides a way for families and friends to stay in touch and share their daily lives and pictures. Facebook also allows you to create business pages that are separate from your personal page. Facebook web address: www.facebook.com

Twitter is a platform where in 140 characters or less, people share their thoughts, share recommended reading, signal businesses that they need product help and advertise jobs. Twitter web address: http://twitter.com/

Social Networking Strategy #1: Use One Profile for All Social Media Networks
In this example you would have just one account or profile at, say, Facebook (and another at Twitter, etc.). When you update your status, add friends, or "like" new pages, this info will be visible to both your friends and professional contacts. You could write about anything -- from the very personal (my dog just destroyed my couch) to something more topical to your job (anyone know how to post a PowerPoint show online?).

Social Networking Strategy #2: Use Separate Personal and Professional Profiles
Set up a separate work-related account and another for personal use on each social networking site. When you want to post about work, log into your professional account and vice versa for personal social networking.

Social Networking Strategy #3: Use Separate Social Networking Services for Different Purposes
Some people use Facebook for personal use but LinkedIn or other niche professional social networks for work use. Facebook, with its games, virtual gifts and other fun but distracting apps may be more suited for general socializing. LinkedIn, meanwhile, has more of a professional focus, with networking groups for different industries and companies. Twitter is often used for both purposes.

Which Social Strategy Should You Use?
If you want the simplest method and are not concerned about mixing your business and personal personas, just use one profile on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and/or other social networks.

If you want to keep your work and personal lives separate, though, use either multiple accounts or different networks for different purposes. It can be more complex, but may be better for work-life balance.

Using Social Networking Sites Wisely and with Confidence
Even though your personal information posted on the internet may be irrelevant to your internship or job search, employers accessing your Facebook account could develop preconceived ideas about you based on the information that's posted online.

- Use pictures wisely.
  If you want to include pictures on your social networking site (and most people do) avoid pictures depicting partying and alcohol or any other discriminating behaviors.

- Be sure to include your accomplishments, knowledge and skills on your site.
  Use your site to build on your personal attributes and accomplishments. Include things such as: internships, volunteer experiences, sports, honors, specific skills (foreign languages, art, music, etc.). Anything that promotes your interests, especially if they relate to your internship search, should be included on the site as well.
• Make an Informed Decision.
Even if you’ve already started an internship or job, be mindful of what and how much information you continue to post online. You still want to create a professional image for employers and co-workers so it's important to be vigilant and continually monitor your account to ensure it makes a favorable impression.

Job Fairs

• Job fairs are a place for employers and job-seekers to come together.
• Research attending companies beforehand, so you know who you want to speak with and what you want to speak about (see pages 69 - 70).
• Have your resume reviewed before attending the Career Fair.
• Dress professionally and bring plenty of copies of your resume.
• Write down questions for the employer ahead of time.
• Purposefully approach the companies that may have jobs you’re interested in. Shake hands and introduce yourself. Chat about job opportunities with the company and your qualifications for specific job openings. Ask if they’d like your resume. Ask what the next step would be. Ask if they are going to be conducting on-campus interviews. Offer to follow up with a phone call.
• Request a business card from the employer/representative.
• Send a thank you card or letter to the employer/representative.
• Stop by 108 Iowa Hall, call 398-5540 or visit www.kirkwood.edu/jobs for dates and a list of employers for the next job fair.

Interviewing Tips

Before the interview:
• Research the company thoroughly beforehand. (See pages 69 - 70) Make sure you understand the position you are applying for and how your qualifications and career goals match the position.
• Call or visit the company website to obtain an extensive job description if available.
• Think about your answers beforehand. Know how you would answer each of the sample questions and be ready to share factual examples to support your answers.
• Practice your interview with a friend. Practice answering and asking questions.
• Pick out and try on the outfit you plan on wearing to the interview.
• Make sure you know where you’re going. Give yourself plenty of time to drive to your destination and double-check your directions via the company website, receptionist and/or a city map.
• Bring extra copies of your resume, your reference sheet, a pen and pad of paper. Carry these things in a briefcase or professional folder.
• Bring a portfolio of items that document your abilities (i.e. writing samples, photos of you in action, relevant class projects, photos of past projects, letters of recommendation, etc.).

At the interview:
• Eat something ahead of time. You should be doing the talking, not your stomach.
• Arrive 10 to 15 minutes early.
• Leave your cell phone in your car.
• Be polite with everyone, including the receptionist.
• Watch your wait. Magazines you select while waiting can reveal your personal preferences, information that may affect the hiring decision. Instead, quietly gather your thoughts and review your answers.
• Greet your interviewer(s) by name. Check with the receptionist beforehand to make sure you know how to pronounce all names correctly.
• Shake your interviewer’s hand firmly and smile.
• Make eye contact.
• Two-way traffic. The exchange should be a conversation. However, the interviewer is not your friend, so keep the interchange professional and watch what you divulge.
• Communicate. Be clear about what you expect to gain if hired so that you can clearly articulate your goals and contributions to the company.
• Listen carefully. If you feel the question is unclear, ask politely for clarification.
• Pause before answering to consider all the facts that may substantiate your response.
• Give and get attention by focusing on the interviewer’s needs and not your own.
• Back up your responses by also giving quantitative information. Give dates and examples to also support your points.
• Be truthful, but try not to offer unsolicited information.
• Try not to open yourself to areas of questioning that could pose difficulties for you.
• Regardless of how things go, conclude with a sincere thank you, a firm handshake and a gracious smile.

Interview Don’ts
• Don’t chew gum or smell like smoke.
• Don’t take your cell phone in with you to the interview.
• Don’t take your parents, spouse, fiancé, or friends to the interview.
• Don’t make negative comments about previous employers or professors (or others).
• Don’t make excuses. Take responsibility for your decisions and your actions.
• Don’t falsify application materials or answers to interview questions.
• Don’t treat the interview casually, as if you are just shopping around or doing the interview for practice. This is an insult to the interviewer and to the organization.
• Don’t give the impression you are only interested in salary; don’t ask about salary and benefits issues until the subject is brought up by your interviewer.
• Don’t act as though you would take any job or are desperate for employment.
• Don’t be unprepared for typical interview questions. You may not be asked all of them in every interview, but being unprepared looks foolish.
• Don’t go to the extremes with your posture; don’t slouch and don’t sit rigidly on the edge of your chair.
• Don’t assume that a female interviewer is “Mrs.” or “Miss.” Address her as “Ms.” Unless told otherwise. If she has a Ph.D. or other doctoral degree or medical degree, use “Dr. (last name)” just as you would with a male interviewer. Marital status of anyone, male or female, is irrelevant to the purpose of the interview.

After the interview:
• Send a thank you card or thank you letter 24-48 hours after your interview. (See pages 57-60)
• Make sure you understand the employer’s next step in the hiring process; know when and from whom you expect to hear next. Know what action you are expected to take next, if any.
• After the interview, make notes right away so you don’t forget critical details.
• Call a week or so after the interview. Ask if a decision has been made. Ask if you’re a candidate.
• If you are still a candidate, ask if they’d consider giving you a 30-day trial period to prove yourself. Ask for a follow-up interview.
• If you have been eliminated, thank them for their time. Ask for constructive criticism (Example: What made you decide not to hire me? What are some areas I could improve upon?).
• Following up shows the employer that you really want the job.

Dress code for women:
• Invest in a good dark suit: Either a skirt or pants are acceptable. Navy blue and grays are the most suitable colors to wear.
• Dress modestly. Avoid low cut blouses, high skirt slits, or short skirts. Wear make-up, but keep it subtle.
• Don’t over-accessorize: Chose a few classy accessories and leave the rest at home. Showy earrings, necklaces, bracelets, rings, pins, belts, or purses can be distracting.
• Avoid flashy colors: Don’t wear things like bright red lipstick, neon green scarves, or hot pink nail polish. Stick to subtle colors.
• If you wear a skirt, wear nude hose color and closed-toe shoes that are no greater than 1 ½” heels.

Dress code for men:
• Dark suit coat (Navy blue and grays) with matching pants, white or light blue dress shirt, matching tie, shined shoes.
• No earrings, hats, or wild ties.
• Shave or trim facial hair.
Dress code for everyone:

- Pay attention to the details: Make sure buttons are sewn on securely, suit is neatly pressed, hair is recently trimmed and well-groomed.
- Don’t wear too much cologne/perfume
- Be cautious of wearing a black suit with white blouse or white dress shirt which could represent you are attending a funeral. It is best to wear an off color blouse or shirt, but not black and white.
- Overall, dress one level higher than what you would normally wear on the job daily!

Guide to dress for interviewing: 15 Point System

Eight (8) points or less: Too plain and under dressed. Fifteen (15) points or more: Too flamboyant or overdressed. Optimal range 9 to 14 points.

Each item is worth one point or in some cases two points:

- Bald Head – 1 pt.
- Each Jewelry item – 1 pt. (Pairs count as 1 pt.)
- Tie Bar, Tie tack etc. – 1 pt.
- Bows, Ties and Scarf - 1 pt.
- Brief Case, Purse – 1 pt.
- Visible pens or Eyeglass cases – 1 pt.
- Eye Glasses – 1 pt.
- Shirt, Blouse – 1 pt.
- Big or Fancy Belt Buckle – 2 pts.
- Large Pins or Broaches – 2 pts.
- Large Earrings – 2 pts.
- Visible Tattoos – 1 to 2 pts.

(Information provided by Doug Thompson, PRN Associates)

A few types of interviews:

- Panel Interview: a group of search committee members or future coworkers interview you.
- Group/Team Interview: You are the member of a group of prospective employees who are interviewed all at the same time.
- Behavioral/Situational Interviews: is a structured interview process that is commonly used for interviewing at many organizations. Candidates are asked to describe situations that they have experienced relative to the skill in question (like conflict or teamwork). All candidates are asked the same set of questions. When answering behavior/situational questions, it is important to give specific examples rather than a general answer. Use the SHARE model to frame your response:

- S Describe a specific Situation
- H Identify Hindrances or challenges
- A Explain the Action that you took
- R Discuss the Results or outcome
- E Evaluate or summarize what you learned

Practice answering Behavioral/Situational questions before the interview (See pages 86 - 91). Take time to think of a good example rather than giving the first response that comes to mind. Short silences are expected.

- Phone Interview: These interviews are used by hiring managers as a tool for screening candidates for employment and determine which candidates to invite to interview in-person. They are also used at first and second round interviews by employers, in order to save in-person interview time and to reduce the applicant pool to the most qualified candidates for the job.

For long-distance job searches, you may be doing some interviewing over the phone. Sometimes employers will screen you over the phone, the first time you make contact. Be prepared for some interview questions anytime you call an employer. Here are additional tips in being prepared for the phone interview:

- Be dressed up so you feel like you are ready for the interview.
- Keep your resume in clear view, on the top of your desk, or tape it to the wall near the phone, so it’s at your fingertips when you need to answer questions.
- Consider using a landline rather than your cell phone to avoid a dropped call or static on the line. If cell phone is your main phone, make sure it is fully charged and do not move around in case you have a weak signal in a spot in your living quarters and lose connection.
- Turn call-waiting off so your call isn’t interrupted
- Have a short list of your accomplishments to review.
- If the time isn’t convenient, ask if you could schedule another time and suggest some alternatives.
- Clear the room - evict the kids, spouses or significant partners, pets, or anything that might make noise like alarms on clocks. Make sure your stereo or TV is shut off.

Practice! Practice! & Practice! Talking on the Phone is not as easy as it seems. Have a Career Professional or friend do a mock interview with you over the phone and at the same time tape record your conversation so you can hear how you converse on the phone. Listen to the tone of your voice and how clearly you speak! If you hear your “uhs”, “ums,” and “okays” in your conversation, you need to practice in reducing them from the interview conversation.

During the phone interview, here are some tips to follow:

- Do keep a glass of water handy, in case you need to wet your mouth.
- Don’t smoke, chew gum, eat or drink.
- Speak slowly and enunciate clearly.
- Smile! Smiling projects a positive image to the listener and will change the tone of your voice.
- Use the person’s title (Mr. or Ms. and their last name.) Only use a first name if they ask you to.
- Don’t interrupt the interviewer.
- Take your time – it’s perfectly acceptable to take a moment or two to collect your thoughts.
- Give short answers.
- Remember your goal is to set-up a face-to-face interview. After you thank the interviewer, ask if it would be possible to meet in person.

It's important to take time to review the typical phone interview questions you'll be asked and to prepare answers. In addition, plan on being prepared for a phone conversation about your background and skills.

Phone Interview Questions about Your Background

- Could I schedule an in-person interview at your convenience?
- If I am extended a job offer, how soon could I start?
- Would you like a list of references?
- When can I expect to hear from you?
- Are there any other questions I can answer for you?

Remember to say “Thank You.” Follow with a Thank You Letter or Card which reiterates your interest in the position. (See pages 57 – 60)

- Interview during a Meal: Sometimes this is the final interview as the hiring company wants to see how you interact in public in a dining situation. The company will watch how you eat and interact with the representatives. This can be one of the most stressful interviews as you need to know how to eat formally. You must know your dining etiquette!

Dining with a prospective employee allows employers to review your communication and interpersonal skills, as well as your table manners, in a more relaxed (for them) environment. Table manners do matter. Good manners may give you the edge over another candidate; so, take some time to brush up your dining etiquette skills.

Interview Dining Tips:

- Are you really nervous? Check out the restaurant ahead of time. That way you'll know exactly what's on the menu, what you might want to order and where the rest rooms are located.
- Be polite. Remember to say "please" and "thank you" to your server as well as to your host.
- Is the table full of utensils? Start at the outside and work your way in. Your salad fork will be on the far left; your entree fork will be next to it. Your dessert spoon and fork will be above your plate.
- Liquids are on the right, solids on the left. For example, your water glass will be on the right and your bread plate will be on the left.
- Put your napkin on your lap once everyone is seated.
- Remember keep your elbows off the table, sit up straight and don't talk with your mouth full!

During the Meal:

- Don't order messy food - pasta with lots of sauce, chicken with bones, ribs, big sandwiches and whole lobsters are all dangerous.
Don't order the most expensive entree on the menu and do not be afraid to ask the Host (Employer) what they recommend. Order an entrée comparable to what they order especially in the price line.

- Do order food that is easy to cut into bite-size pieces.
- The polite way to eat soup is to spoon it away from you. There's less chance of spilling in your lap that way too!
- Break your dinner roll into small pieces and eat it a piece at a time.
- If you need to leave the table, put your napkin on the arm of your chair or fold it on back of the chair.
- When you've finished eating, move your knife to the “Nine to Three o’clock” position and your fork to the "Eight to Four o’clock" position so the server knows you're done.
- Remember to try and relax, listen and participate in the conversation and remember you will be talking about 70% of the time and eating about 30% of the time.

To Drink or Not to Drink:
- It's wise not to drink alcohol during an interview. Interviewing is tough enough without adding alcohol to the mix. Especially do not try to order alcohol when you are under age! Monitor your hosts on their consumption amount of alcohol as this will tell you the behavior of your new supervisor and co-workers.

After the Meal:
- Put your napkin on the table next to your plate on the left side.
- Let the prospective employer pick up the tab. The person who invited you will expect to pay both the bill and the tip.
- Remember to say "thank you." Consider also following-up with a thank you letter or thank you card which reiterates your interest in the job. (See pages 57 – 60)

Mesh with Corporate Culture/Job

When you’ve held previous jobs, how did you determine what were the appropriate and inappropriate things to do? Cite some specific examples.

Give a realistic job preview then ask the following question – Please give me specific examples of things you have done on previous jobs or in your education, which would demonstrate that you would perform effectively and enjoy this position.

Common Closing Question

Is there any question I didn’t ask, that you wish I had asked? (Use this time to mention anything you want to add that would demonstrate your ability to perform the job)
Illegal Questions

Employers cannot ask illegal questions in regard to your age, marital status, children, childcare arrangements, gender, race, religion and sexual orientation. Illegal questions may relate to circumstances that are not specific to the job in which you are interviewing. If you were asked an illegal question such as “What’s your marital status?” an appropriate question would be: “Would you be willing to relocate if necessary?” There are 3 ways to answer the illegal question and they are 1. Simply answer the question. 2. Refuse to answer the question. 3. Reflect the question back to the interviewer for clarification as to what they are really asking. If you are asked inappropriate questions when interviewing, be polite and try not to be defensive. If the interviewer is very pushy in knowing personal information, you have to ask yourself, do you want to work for this company?

Job Applications

When applying for jobs, you may be asked to fill out a job application. Here are some things to keep in mind when filling out application forms.

- Follow the directions very carefully. Take your time.
- Some companies may ask you to fill out an online application form.
- Photocopy the original application form, before you fill in the blanks. That way if you can’t fix your mistakes, you can start over without having to go back and ask for a new form. Also, you can use the photocopy as a referral sheet in filling out future applications.
- Use erasable blue or/and black ink pen.
- Be honest! Because your application is a legal document, you can be fired for false information.
- Never leave an item blank. If the questions don’t apply to you write “NA” (non-applicable). This ensures the employer that the application is complete.
- Answer the question on “position desired”, “job preference” or “job for which you are applying” with a specific job title or type of work. Avoid leaving this field blank. Also, do not use the responses "Any" or "Open."
- If the job is an advertised job, or if you are looking for a specific position, enter that job title. When you are not applying for a specific position, state the name of the department in which you wish to work. If you are interested in more than one job, fill out more than one application. For salary requirements some employers may use this question to screen out applicants. It is best to give a salary range or to respond with "negotiable." Check this website: https://www.iowaworkforcedevelopment.gov/iowa-wage-report
- When giving reasons for leaving a previous position you should choose your words carefully when responding to this question. Avoid using the words "Fired," "Quit," "Illness," or "Personal Reasons." These responses may reduce your chances of being hired. Always look for positive statements to use in answering this question such as “involuntary separation” or “employer requested”.
- Keep your application consistent with your resume, coincide details like dates, names, titles, etc.
- Keep a record of everywhere you have applied. If applying online, record any usernames, passwords and application numbers you may be given.
- When applying online prepare for technical glitches. If the site has a save as you go option, do take advantage of this.
- Be sure to check your spelling and proofread your entire application.
- Whenever you pick up or turn in an application, dress professionally.
- Follow up a few days (7 working days) later with a phone call.
- Major in high school should be labeled as “General”.

Federal Applications

KSA’s and Essays are important parts of your total application. Most federal applications are composed of two or three parts. First is the federal Resume (usually electronic format). Then there is often a requirement for Knowledge, Skills and Abilities (KSA) narratives. More recently, agencies have been adding Questionnaires with Self-Assessment Questions and Essay Answers as a part of the application process. The third part is faxes of additional information.
In KSA’s you give examples that demonstrate your performance. The KSA narratives exemplify the critical job elements that require specialized experience. Supervisors are looking for examples that demonstrate your highest level of experience.

There are three different KSA/Essay styles:

1. Narrative CCAR KSA (long-one page): This style includes full sentences, descriptions, details and long and short sentences. It could include the full Context, Challenge, Action and Results (CCAR) formula that tells a complete story, or an example that demonstrates your competency in the area.

2. Example KSA – shorter (medium – half page): Project details are similar to the narrative style, but presented in a shorter format. The example may not include a CCAR story, just an example demonstrating performance.

3. List KSA (shortest – half page): This response provides a list of relevant examples that will prove your skill level for the Questions or KSA response. The list should include the name of the project or item, plus a description. Each list entry should include a short description.

Application Worksheet
The worksheets on pages 99 to 102 will give you a chance to practice filling out an application and can be used as a cheat sheet when you fill out any application online or at the place of business.

Follow Up

- You will improve your chances of getting a job, if you follow up on all jobs you apply for and all “fishing” letters you send.
- Call or email 3-5 days after sending a resume, unless the employer requests no phone calls.
- Some sample questions you could ask during your follow-up call: Did you receive all of my credentials? Do you have any questions for me? Where are you in your hiring process? Am I a candidate? When can I expect to hear from you? Would you be interested in setting up a time to meet with me?
- If you are granted an interview, send a thank you note immediately afterwards. (See pages 57-60)
Evaluating Job Offers

Eventually, you may be offered a position with a company. Congratulations! Your next step is deciding whether or not to take the job. You may have to choose between two offers. Here are some things to consider.

Look at the corporate culture
- Do you really want to work there?
- Is there work/life balance?
- Is there open communication?
- Is it a positive working environment?
- Will you enjoy your coworkers?
- Are there opportunities for training and advancement?
- Can you get behind the vision of the company?
- How do the company’s values align with your own?
- Will your work activities be interesting and fulfilling?
- How flexible will your work hours be?
- How’s the company’s reputation?

Understand the benefits package. Benefits add value to your package. You may actually walk away with more money at a lower salary job with excellent benefits. Ask questions to clarify what’s included in your benefits package.
- What is the cost to the employee for health insurance?
- What all is covered by the insurance? What is the co-pay? Dental? Vision?
- 401K matching?
- Retirement or early retirement programs?
- Tuition reimbursement?
- Life insurance?
- Flexible spending accounts?
- Profit sharing or stock options?
- Vacation days? (Divide base salary by 260 to determine the cash value of each paid vacation day)

Know what you’re worth
- Find out what others who do similar work in the same geographic location are being paid. Make sure your offer is comparable.

Can you negotiate?
You may want to consider asking for a larger salary or added benefits if a few of the following are true:
- The salary offered is significantly below your market value.
- The person who offered you the job has the power to increase your salary.
- The company is large and/or financially stable.
- They are urgently trying to fill the position.
- You are significantly more qualified than the other applicants, or there is little competition for the position.
Some Final Tips on Job Searching

- Don’t give up. If you are like most people, you will be rejected many times before you land a job. This is to be expected. If you have to work a dead-end job to pay bills, continue to set aside time each week to devote to finding a job you like.
- During your job search, be sure to spend time around people who affirm you and encourage you in your search. This will help keep you positive and motivated.
- Be willing to start at the bottom. Look at the big picture. The job may not be your dream job, but it may lead to your dream job someday. Consider: Will you improve your skills and learn new skills? Will you develop valuable contacts? Are there opportunities for advancement? Will this job enhance your resume?

Transitioning from School to Work

Making the transition from school to work can be a time filled with uncertainties and nervousness.

Leaving Kirkwood

- Get letters of reference from your instructors or ask if they will be a reference for you. It’s better to get them while they still remember you. You may need letters of reference in the future for scholarships, jobs, or graduate school. Remember to always stay in contact with your references.
- Stay connected with student organizations that may be able to help you in terms of networking.
- Check with the financial aid office to make sure you understand your financial obligations.

At your first job

- In the workplace, it doesn’t really matter how cool you are, or how cool you were. It does matter how ambitious, competent, positive, diligent and dedicated you are.
- Be sure to ask for clarification or direction when you need it; on the other hand, take initiative and try to figure things out on your own. You will drive everyone crazy if you ask too many questions.
- Don’t hesitate to take on projects that will challenge you and help you refine your skills.
- Strive for professionalism: Dress appropriately, avoid swearing, avoid gossip!!
- Actively manage your money: Seek financial advice, learn about investments and make a budget.
