

Distance Learning Online Classes

Online Registration Restriction: Students with a GPA of less than 1.8 for all online classes within the previous three years will have a registration restriction placed on their record. The restriction prevents registration in online classes until the average for online courses reaches 1.8 or better, or a three year period has passed. The average for online courses can be improved by retaking failed or low-scored courses in a face-to-face format. Retaking and passing courses removes previous grades from the transcript. Note: This registration restriction does not prevent students from enrolling in face-to-face or hybrid format classes, only online classes.

Online courses have deadlines: There is always a start and end date. Instructors decide on any other deadlines. You must begin your course promptly and make sure you understand and can meet your instructor's requirements. If you receive financial aid, be sure to know your instructor's attendance requirement.

Financial aid attendance: Financial aid is available for books before classes begin. After classes begin, your attendance must be verified in order to use financial aid for textbooks.

Buying books/materials: View information and purchase textbooks online at www.kirkwood.edu/bookstore. You must purchase the materials specified for your section. Some online courses may require an access code found in the textbook, and course work cannot be started without it.

Student e-mail: your course information will be e-mailed. It is important to learn how to access your Kirkwood student e-mail account. Visit www.kirkwood.edu/email for information about how to activate your student account.

Internet/online courses:* Online classes are accessed at www.kirkwood.edu/talon. Find how to log in and other information at www.kirkwood.edu/talon. You do not have to be online at any specific time, but there will be due dates for the assignments and exams. A textbook is usually required and some courses require monitored exams.

Waitlists: If classes are full, many online sections will offer the option to add your name to a waitlist. Use Manage My Waitlist on EagleNet to check your daily status. Being on a waitlist does not guarantee a seat in a class. Look for more information about waitlisting at www.kirkwood.edu/distancelearning.

Withdrawing from classes: Select Register and Drop Sections on Course Planner, or call 319-398-7600 or 877-386-9101. Withdrawal dates can be found at www.kirkwood.edu/lastdaytodrop.

Tutoring: Free tutoring is available for online students. Call 319-398-5425 for more information.
